Streets Given a Flushing.
The city street cleaning force is trying the scheme of flushing the mud from the down town streets today, and it is working admirably. Sufficient fire hose to reach a block is used, and the water from the fire hydrants is thrown with great force against the pavement, flushing the mud and dirt into the gutter. The streets which have been cleaned as far as Fourth street, and the contrast is remarkable.
For Disorderly Conduct.
A sextet who gave the names of Tom Pinos, Nick Pinos, Peter Pinos, Hazel Field, Belle McHenry, and Vinnie Barago were found in a rooming house on South Third street by the police last night and brought to the station on a charge of disorderly conduct. The sextet was guilty to the charge, and left $15 each for their appearance in court this morning. They did not appear, and the bonds were declared forfeited.

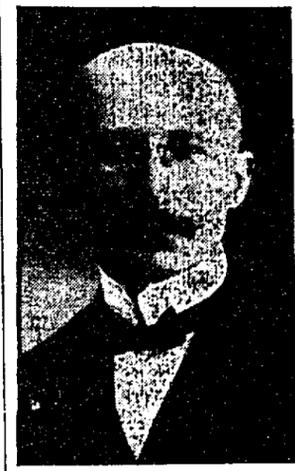

Train Hits Car.
A car from a Milwaukee switching train bumped into the side of an interurban car, in which several passengers were riding at the end of the Fourth street bridge early last evening. The interurban car had just crossed the bridge when the switch engine sent a string of cars against a single car, which stood near the interurban tracks. It was the intention of the Milwaukee switching crew to couple the single car to the train. The couplers did not catch, however, and the single car was thrown into the interurban passenger car. The passengers were badly shaken up, but none were injured.
Doctors to Discuss City Water.
The second meeting of the local doctors to discuss city conditions will be held in the library auditorium February sixth at which meeting the city water will be the subject for consideration. A report will be made to demonstrate the condition of the water as well as places directly connected with the water supply and some facts will be presented that doubtless will be a real surprise to these citizens. All open to the public and the doctors are in hopes that the library auditorium will be filled to its capacity by citizens interested in the health of the city. This is the second of a series of health meetings that are planned by the doctors for this year.
Wreck Narrowly Averted.
Engineer Ed Shaughnessy of this city did remarkable work in preventing a freight train from running off the Rock Island bridge near the Sinclair packing plant shortly after 11 o'clock yesterday. Shaughnessy was running a Rock Island engine on an extra freight which was coming to Cedar Rapids from the south. When the engine was half way across the bridge, the wheels slipped off one of the drive wheels. Shaughnessy realized something was wrong and brought the locomotive to a sudden stop, thus saving the engine and train from being derailed into the river. The engine and train were notified and the train was brought to the yards by a switch engine.
Youngsters Wanted a "Dictionary."
Two little boys came to the news office of The Gazette this morning and standing on tiptoe so as to look over the counter, stated that their "ma" wanted a dictionary. The circulation manager tried to explain that dictionaries were not for sale at the Gazette office, but the youngsters persisted and would not be turned down. Then the c. m. saw a good chance to have some fun. He borrowed the big Webster's dictionary from the editorial room, and attempted to hand it to the youngsters. They backed up at the sight of the big volume and finally when one of The Gazette's red covered directors was handed out the dictionary, the youngsters knew they had the kind of a book "ma" wanted.

Left Horse to Die.
Mrs. John Rose, assistant humane officer, had her attention called to a bit of inhumanity yesterday that shows how much sympathy a faithful old horse sometimes gets after it reaches the "down and out" class. A man riding past the city street where he had a sick horse—an animal that had been with it for some time—was bothered with it, he dragged it out of the barn and left it to die. It has been through many attempts since Monday. Mrs. Rose had the animal shot to end its misery and on account of the man's wife, who pleaded for him, he was not prosecuted. Another matter brought to the attention of the humane officer was a family living near the high school. A dog belonging to one of the boys bore a litter of puppies and to get rid of them they were put in a box car and probably were not discovered until many miles from Cedar Rapids.
Mr. Ford Sues City of Montezuma.
Contractor M. Ford of this city has sued the City of Montezuma for $12,000 as the balance due him for street paving done last year. Mr. Ford alleges that certificates were not issued promptly upon the completion of the work, and that the city has done nothing but the duty to issue valid certificates and warrants. Montezuma claims the sum of $50 per day for overtime as an offset, because the paving was not completed until June, 1910, which was some six months after it should have been done, thereby leaving the streets closed and unavailable for the public during the winter and spring. To this Mr. Ford answers with the statement that the $50 per day was excessive and is a penalty and liquidated damages, and therefore not to be considered in the contract. He also claims that the town council waived all rights for overtime, if it ever had any such right, when it accepted the paving last June.

FEW BOHEMIANS ARE COMING OVER

FIND GOOD CHANCES IN NATIVE HEATH SAYS REV. ZILKA.
Recent Development in Industrial and Agricultural Conditions is Stopping Decline in Population—Health Conditions Better in Bohemia Than America.
Emigration from Bohemia to the United States is quickly declining, and at the present time very few Bohemians are leaving the mother country to take up their residence in the new world, said Rev. Frank Zilka, of Melnik, Bohemia, who is visiting in Cedar Rapids. Rev. Zilka stated that the future European immigrants to the United States will be coming from Russia and the Balkan states. They will be mostly Russians, Servians, Kroatians, Macedonians, Slovaks and Greeks.
Rev. Zilka stated that the reason for the decline of emigration from Bohemia and other European countries, which have been sending great numbers of immigrants to American shores, is caused by the recent development in industry and agricultural conditions and the coming of better conditions for the common people. In

REV. FRANK ZILKA.

Rev. Zilka's opinion the great rush of families to America, such as took place forty years ago, will never come again, especially the rush of families from Germany and Bohemia.
Conditions Are Better.
Conditions throughout the greater part of Europe are much better than they were twenty years ago, and in all parts of Europe development is noticeable. Rev. Zilka stated that the industrial and agricultural development is a world wide movement, and that conditions are rapidly getting better. In Bohemia conditions are such that but few people are tempted to leave. Manufacture has enjoyed a wonderful development, as has agriculture. The farmers in Bohemia now use much modern machinery, but not as much as is used in the United States. Rev. Zilka stated that there is the great supply of laboring men stops the rapid coming of farm machinery for where there are enough men to do the work, modern machinery is not badly needed.
No Poverty in Bohemia.
The bettering of conditions, Rev. Zilka attributes to the social democratic movement in Germany and Bohemia. The socialists of these two countries do not take a very active part in politics but advocate shorter laboring hours, better pay for the working man, and better educational facilities. This has greatly improved conditions of the common people, and at the present time there is no poverty in Bohemia.
Rev. Zilka stated that the United States offers many possibilities to the average man than does Bohemia and its neighboring European countries. There is more wealth in America, and the opportunities for a poor man of getting into business for himself here cannot be found in the old country. In the old country, Bohemians think of America as a great land of freedom, wealth, and unlimited opportunities. Their conception of the new world, however, is not very definite, for the actual conditions in the United States are not definitely known in the old country.
Why on Colleges.
Rev. Zilka stated that he admired American high schools and colleges, and that these surpassed the colleges of his own country. He stated that American money has made it possible to erect great college buildings, construct laboratories which are well equipped with the necessary apparatus. In the old country, the money that is commonly used for the development of such school and college work. Rev. Zilka was surprised and greatly pleased with the number of large colleges he saw in Iowa, and cited the instance of Bohemia, a country with a population of 6,000,000 having only one university.
The grade schools in Bohemia, however, Rev. Zilka said were on a level with the public school in the United States. Attendance is compulsory, and very able teachers are employed in the grade school and the result is that Bohemia has a smaller percentage of illiterates than any European country in Europe. This percentage is only one and one-half.

Health Guarded Carefully.
Rev. Zilka greatly admired the residence districts in smaller American cities. He stated that the idea of having many residence houses far apart in cities is a distinctly American custom, and one deserving of praise. On the other hand, however, Rev. Zilka stated that the large cities of his own and neighboring countries are more sanitary and safe than the great American cities. He stated that many cities, such as Berlin, Vienna, Prague, are not allowed in Prague, and that the authorities take better care of large European cities than they do in the United States.
